The future of diversity compliance is now

Governments track, certify, and audit contractors, payrolls, concessionaires, subcontractors, and suppliers with a few mouse clicks. Vendors input and manage contract and payroll information through simple web-based forms, which integrate seamlessly with government databases and reports.

The system replicates traditional paper-based diversity management processes, but streamlines them, reducing initial learning time to just a few hours – and producing significant time and cost savings for governments and contractors. The software's basic functionality is complemented by advanced reporting, workflow, search, and XML capabilities, making it an enterprise product, at a desktop price.

The software uses XML to exchange data with existing financial, procurement, ERP, and other pre-existing systems on an open-standards basis. Combined with vendor account self-management and entry of audit data, the data workload on staff is significantly reduced, allowing more time for more important issues.

About B2Gnow & LCPtracker

We provide efficient, effective enterprise software for governments. The company's goal is to use technology to improve government's internal and external functions. Our flagship products provide powerful, cost-effective, user-friendly solutions to today's pressing dilemmas in public-sector operations.

Best-of-Breed Solution

Since 1999, B2Gnow has provided the leading contract compliance, concession compliance, certification management, and outreach solution available. LCPtracker has offered the foremost prevailing wage and labor compliance system on the market. Although founded as separate companies, B2Gnow and LCPtracker have created a unique partnership that provides customers with the only best-of-breed solution available. Both solutions are now available in a single implementation with unmatched performance and functionality.

The solutions have been integrated to allow easy navigation between all system modules and functionality through a single system login. Once logged in, the full comprehensive functionality of all system modules is available to the customer. Furthermore, each implementation is provided by a highly experienced combined team who has worked together to successfully implement many major cities, counties, airports, and agencies across the country.

Since the company's founding, we have provided software exclusively to governments and their contractors. Our software is easy to use, with intuitive graphical interfaces developed with input from a wide range of government users. Yet the software is powerful, secure, and scalable. We've built products to support thousands of simultaneous users and transactions in a completely secure, robust environment. Our solutions are offered as a robust hosted system that requires no additional hardware or software and negligible training and implementation expenses.

The products are designed to easily integrate with existing financial, ERP, CRM, asset management, and HR applications. Our modular design and simple customization make it easily configurable to your needs – our implementation is much less labor-intensive than that of the competition with deployments measured in weeks, rather than months or years. Best of all, our experience ensures a successful implementation on the first attempt and we warranty our work and services.
